

PRENUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

Prenups

Build your life together – protected, prepared, and in partnership

What Is a Prenup?

A prenuptial agreement is a contract made before marriage that outlines how finances, assets, and debts will be handled if the marriage ends in divorce or death. Only one attorney is required.

Common Misconceptions

- “Prenups are only for the wealthy.” → Not true. Anyone with assets, children, or financial responsibilities can benefit
- “Signing a prenup means we don’t trust each other.” → In reality, it’s about transparency, protection, and planning.

When a Prenup Makes Sense

- You own a business or professional practice
- You have children from a prior relationship
- You or your partner have significant debt
- You own property or expect a future inheritance

Why Consider a Prenup?

- Protect premarital assets (like real estate, businesses, or investments)
- Clarify financial rights and responsibilities during the marriage
- Avoid future conflict by setting expectations upfront
- Provide peace of mind for both partners

Why Johnson/Turner?

- Flat-rate pricing—no hourly surprises
- Experienced attorneys with family law and estate planning backgrounds
- Compassionate, transparent approach to sensitive conversations

Already Married? Learn more about Postnuptial Agreements on the back!

POSTNUPTIAL AGREEMENTS

Postnups

Honor where you are. Define where you're going.

What Is a Postnup?

A postnuptial agreement is a contract made after marriage that defines how assets, debts, and financial responsibilities will be managed if the marriage ends in divorce or death. Both parties require representation.

Common Misconceptions

- “It’s too late for us because we’re already married.” → Not true. A postnup can be just as effective as a prenup.
- “Postnups are only for failing marriages.” → Not necessarily true. Many couples use them proactively to strengthen their relationship.

When a Postnup Makes Sense

- You or your spouse recently started or expanded a business
- You’ve inherited or expect to inherit significant assets
- You want to update financial agreements after major life changes (children, home purchase, etc.)
- You want legal clarity without pursuing divorce

Why Consider a Postnup?

- Provide clarity if financial or personal circumstances have changed
- Rebuild trust after conflict by setting financial boundaries
- Protect one spouse from the other’s debts
- Create peace of mind when blending families or acquiring new assets

Why Johnson/Turner?

- Proven process to guide difficult conversations
- Flat-rate packages that fit your needs
- Supportive team committed to protecting your future

Not Married Yet? Learn more about Prenuptial Agreements on the back!